

JOURNAL OF CIRCUITS, SYSTEMS, AND COMPUTERS

Vol. 19, No. 3 (May 2010)

CONTENTS

- Low Power Continuous Time Common Mode Sensing for Common Mode Feedback Circuits 519
M. Pramod and T. Lazminidhi
- History and Progress of the Tow Thomas Bi-quadratic Filter Part III: Generation Using NAM Expansion 529
A. M. Soliman
- An Improved Hough Transform Algorithm for Radar Detection 549
J. Zeng, J. Zhang, L. Xiang, Z. Dong and S. Yuan
- Availability of Unused Computational Resources in an Ordinary Office Environment 557
A. de Blanche and S. Mankefors-Christiernin
- Design of Filters with only Grounded Passive Elements Using Differential Voltage Current Feedback Operational Amplifiers 573
P. Samiotis and C. Psychalinos
- Embedded Controlled Pulse Converter FED Induction Heater 581
D. Kirubakaran and S. Rama Reddy
- Synthesis of Controlled Sources by Admittance Matrix Expansion 597
A. M. Soliman
- An Energy Efficient Half-Static Clock-Gating D-Type Flip-Flop 635
W.-S. Tam, O.-Y. Wong, K.-Y. Mok, C.-W. Kok and H. Wong
- Influence of Traffic Correlation on the Performance of Network-on-Chip Designs 655
F. Wang
- Terahertz Optical Asymmetric Demultiplexer Based All Optical Data Comparator 671
D. K. Gayen, C. Taraphdar, J. N. Roy and R. K. Pal

This book provides a comprehensive treatment of computer systems analysis and synthesis. It is designed to be used as a text or reference for students and researchers in computer systems and related fields. The book covers the design and implementation of computer systems, including hardware, software, and network systems. It also discusses the performance evaluation of computer systems and the design of computer systems for real-time applications. The book is suitable for students and researchers in computer systems and related fields.
